President Taft:

By Leighton C. Taylor

Mrs. Taft Breaks Precedent By Riding With New President To White House After Inauguration; Washington's Sartorial Elegance.

The delivery of President William Howard Taft's inaugural address in 1909 concluded the ceremonies in the Senate Chamber, and he and Mrs. Taft retired for lunch in the Capitol. The President, being the trencherman that he was, took his time and ate heartily, while the clouds overhead were disappearing, the storm subsiding, and the sun shining brightly. Although the temperature continued low the weather with the exception of snow underfoot was ideal for parading, and the thousands of paraders assembled in the Capitol area were getting into formation and "rarin" to go.

The Capitol plaza was one solid mass of people waiting for the President and calling for him to appear. In due course he and Mrs. Taft emerged from the east front door and walked out on the temporary platform on which he was to have taken the oath of office and delivered his inaugural address. He was received with loud acclaim, and, since the ex-President wasn't going to ride in the parade and to the White House with his successor, Mrs. Taft decided that she would.

Another Precedent Broken
No other President's wife had ever done this, but so long as precedents were being discarded right and left Mrs. Taft thought she wouldn't be running too great a risk by breaking this one. There was much objection on the part of the Inaugural Committee but she had her way in spite of protests. Taking her place by her husband's side they led the traditional parade down Pennsylvania Avenue to the White House, from which point for six hours President Taft and Vice President Sherman viewed the passing panorama which, in many respects, surpassed anything of the kind held before or since.

In the military units there were 12,000 Regulars — troops from the "Cuban Army of Pacification," from the "Philippine Constabulary," and 3,300 sailors from the fleet at Hampton Roads, bronzed by their just-finished cruise around the world (first ever taken by an American battle fleet — our announcement that we had taken our place in the sun to which our victory over Spain entitled us); cadets from West Point and midshipmen from Annapolis.

Colorful Procession

Interspersed were military units and civilians as well, that recalled America's past, their names evoking the flavor of old times. The Worcester (Mass.) Continentals, organized April 10, 1776, wearing uniforms of buff and blue identical to the uniform George Washington wore in the Revolutionary War, and vividly recalling the "Spirit of 1776." The Richmond (Va.) Blues, organized in the year Washington became President, wearing a uniform of dark blue with silver trimmings, and leather helmets a foot

FOUR PRACTICAL NURSES FINISH FORMAL COURSE

Formal graduation exercises were held for a class of practical nurses of the Warner Hospital Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Chapel room of St. James Lutheran Church "marking the conclusion of the hospital's first formal course in practical nursing" according to hospital administrator, Walter B. Dillon.

Atty. John A. MacPhail, guest speaker, who was introduced by Wilbur Bankert, first vice president of the board of directors of the hospital, congratulated the four women graduates, Mrs. Rhoda Bosserman, East Berlin; Mrs. Dolores McCans, Gettysburg; Mrs. Helen Grimes, Fairfield, and Mrs. Polly Tanger, York Springs.

"These young ladies on the stage here tonight," he said, "must have taken into consideration somewhere along the line that something had to be done and they are here to do it. In this hurry-up, atomic, high blood pressure age there is a growing trend toward the expendable. We read about a typhoon in some far-off land and then we turn the next page to the comic section of the newspaper. We are sorry about the disaster, we are not indifferent, but we have a feeling of futility. We know how terrible are the sufferings of these people but we feel we can't do anything about it. But these graduates feel, at least, that they can do something to help alleviate suffering.

Practical Career

"Their career is a practical one. There is a great need for the practical nurse," he said, "to fill the fundamental needs of the patient so that the registered nurse can be relieved to do more delicate work. They will render a great service to the community and we hope this type of service will grow." Attorney MacPhail concluded his talk with Longfellow's poem, "The Psalm of Life."

Dr. Roy W. Gifford, representing the medical staff, who congratulated the nurses, said "Things are changing in medicine and the practical nurse will serve the people of the community in a very real way. I have contended that the registered nurse will go forward in the medical field and she will be relieved at the patient's bedside by the trained

United States Has Stocks Of Atomic Warheads In France

PARIS (AP)—The United States has stockpiled atomic warheads in France, it was learned authoritatively today.

The source for this disclosure cannot be given, but it is now solid information. Selected Allied forces in NATO are being trained in the use of equipment that would carry the warheads. The warheads themselves are held by U.S. forces.

U. S. law forbids delivery of atomic warheads to other nations. However, as one expert put it, the aim of the Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe is to train the Allied forces so carefully that in the event of Russian attack all the Americans in charge of the stockpile would have to say is:

"Sergeant, there's the key."

The U. S. government never has disclosed whether A-bombs or warheads were located at any of its overseas bases. The atomic energy law forbids such disclosures. Last Jan. 3 Gen. Randolph Pate, Marine commandant, was quoted as saying Marines with the U. S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean were armed with "live" atomic artillery, but the White House refused to confirm or deny that this meant atomic warheads.

The Soviet Union warned the United States Jan. 23 against setting up nuclear weapon and missile bases in other countries, and said countries permitting such bases would receive quick atomic retaliation in the event of war.

Wedding

Betty M. Arbuckle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. G. MacPherson, Sr., Taneytown Rd., became the bride of Wilbur W. Deitz, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Martin L. The bride wore a dark green wool dress with white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

The couple will reside temporarily at Gettysburg R. 1.

IKE CONFERRING WITH ADVISERS

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower and top foreign policy advisers confer again today in a continuing effort to get Israeli troops out of Egypt despite a new rebuff.

The President arranged an early meeting with Secretary of State Dulles and Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., American ambassador to the United Nations.

Dulles and Lodge flew to Eisenhower's vacation headquarters from Washington last night and immediately gave him a 45-minute report on Israel's rejection, in effect, of a United States plan for withdrawal of Israeli forces from the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba.

Stumbling Block
After that session White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said only that it "dealt with the Middle East, particularly the Israeli situation."

Israel offered a counterproposal but the State Department promptly called it "not responsive" and Dulles authorized a statement of "regret."

The stumbling block reportedly was Israeli insistence on a non-belligerency pledge from Egypt, or greater assurance of U. S. support before pulling out of territory claimed by Egypt.

TV Film Discovers Ancient Sea Fossil

MILTON, Pa. (AP)—It took nine years and a television program to arouse John Reich's curiosity about that piece of clay he uncovered while digging his cellar.

But now he knows. It's a fossil containing sea shell imprints and its about 320 million years old.

The American Museum of Natural History in New York City estimated the fossil's age in a letter to Reich, saying, "It was removed from its parent outcrop by glacial action approximately one million years ago."

Reich said he sent the fossil to the museum after seeing one of its films on television.

May Bare Knees In Athletic Contests

BETHANY, Okla. (AP)—A 40-year tradition has gone by the boards at Bethany-Peniel College, a Nazarene Church institution.

The college's board of trustees has authorized male students to wear "apparel baring the knees" for intra-school athletic events.

Since the religious school was first situated here in 1917, men students have been required to wear warm-up suits or long trousers in any type of athletic contest.

practical nurse. Twenty-five years from now practical nurses will be a large part of the medical world of our nation. I think you will remember these words."

Mrs. John D. Teeter, president of the Hospital Auxiliary, told the graduates that "you have chosen one of the noblest professions."

Mrs. Pauline Mowery, director of nurses, capped the four women and presented each a certificate of achievement. Each graduate wore a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Mowery was assisted by Mrs. Josephine Delp, assistant instructor.

Serve Refreshments
Rev. Paul R. Reaser, pastor of St. James Lutheran Church, opened the exercises with an invocation and closed with a benediction. Donald Golden, York Springs, played "Marche Romaine" at the opening of the program as the nurses and others took their places on the stage. During the program he played two piano solos, Schubert's "Ave Maria" and Brahms' "Lullaby."

The stage was decorated with baskets of spring flowers, gifts from the hospital nursing staff and the Hospital Auxiliary.

Punch and cookies were served by the hospital staff afterwards in the church social room. About 50 relatives and friends were in attendance.

HANOVER HOTEL SOLD ON FRIDAY

Settlement was made Friday in the sale of the Hotel Richard McAllister to the Homewood Church Home Corporation of the Evangelical and Reformed Church for a total consideration of about $290,000.

The transaction was completed Friday morning in the office of Attorney Lavere C. Senft, York, and the transfer of ownership from the McAllister Realty Co. of Hanover to the church organization was recorded at the courthouse in York at noon.

The consideration for realty involved was $183,500, but the total cost will be close to $290,000.

The formal announcement of completion of the transaction said the hotel has been leased "for an indefinite period" to the recent manager, H. C. Stenger. All public service will continue under Stenger's management, except the bar, which was closed effective Friday.

It is planned eventually to convert the major portion of the 76-room hotel into facilities for the care of elderly people, the church corporation's announcement said.

4-Year-Old Getting Shot Provides Laugh

HAZARD, Ky. (AP)—Nurses who administered shots after the recent flood told of having at least one good laugh.

Two brothers, 4 and 5 years old, arrived for their shots.

The 4-year-old asserted he was not afraid of "no old shot."

But the needle brought a tear to his cheek and an adult oath from his mouth.

"You're not supposed to say that — say 'thank you,'" the 5-year-old said sternly.

"Thank you," he'll I'm being killed," replied the 4-year-old.

Neighbors Don't Like Her Souvenir

VINELAND, N. J. (AP)—This souvenir just didn't go over at all with the neighbors.

Mrs. Ruth Dean came across a big German flag with a swastika on it while doing her household chores yesterday. She decided to hang it out on her clothes line for an airing and forgot about it.

Neighbors saw the flag. Two anonymous callers offered to pay passage back to Germany.

Mrs. Dean called police. The cops had heard about the Nazi flag and suggested Mrs. Dean take it off the clothesline.

The flag was a souvenir her husband had brought back from Germany.

WET WEATHER IN EASTERN U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Most of the nation's wet weather today was confined to areas in the eastern third of the country.

The wet belt extended from the Great Lakes region through the Ohio Valley and western sections of the South Atlantic coastal states and into the Gulf Coast states.

Light snow fell in the Great Lakes area and in northern parts of the Ohio Valley. Rain was reported south of the snow belt except for scattered light snow in the Appalachians. Precipitation amounts were mostly light. Snowfall measured 1 to 3 inches in lower Michigan and from 2 to 6 inches in upper Michigan.

Only other wet spots were in Southern California, which was hit by light drizzle, and the Dakotas and Minnesota, which reported snow flurries.

West of the Great Lakes region, a fresh surge of cold air which moved southeastward across the Plains yesterday extended over most of the country from Wisconsin to Washington and southward to Colorado and northern Texas. Lowest temperatures were near the Canadian border in Minnesota, with readings near zero.

TEN YEARS AGO

Sportsmen Plan To Guard Stocked Fish: The Adams County Fish and Game Association decided at a meeting Friday evening upon a double course of action to protect for a reasonable length of time after stocking the thousands of game fish expected to be placed in Adams county streams this year.

First the group appealed to the sportsmanship of countians to refrain from taking freshly-stocked fish from streams when they can be "caught by anybody in large numbers thus defeating the purpose of the stocking program and stripping the streams of fish which rods-men who have paid their license fees have reason to expect to find there."

The second plan, which will be carried out promptly, is to arrange for the appointment of deputy fish wardens to patrol stocked streams immediately after the fish are liberated and until they have had an opportunity to acclimate themselves to their new life.

Adams County Tops Goal In Scout Drive: With approximately $18,000 already turned in from various local communities, the Adams county goal of $15,392 in the drive to raise $100,000 in York and Adams counties for a new Boy Scout camp near Dillsburg has been more than reached.

Annual Dinner For Growers of Tomatoes Held: Parker A. Lerev, York Springs R. D. farmer, whose production of 25.77 tons per acre won him the honor of being first in tomato production in the state, was awarded two prizes Friday evening at the annual tomato growers banquet held by the C. H. Musselman company at Biglerville. He was given a radio for having the largest production of any Musselman grower.

He was also awarded with a blanket for being second in quality among all Musselman producers. His fields produced 86 per cent U. S. No. 1's, 13 per cent No. 2's and one per cent culls.

Eagles Finish Plans For 40th Anniversary: Plans were completed by the special committee of the Gettysburg Aerie No. 1562, Fraternal Order of Eagles, at a meeting Friday night for the observance of the 40th anniversary of the granting of the charter. The aerie was organized and a charter granted in 1907. The three-day celebration at the clubrooms on Chambersburg street will take place March 6, 7 and 8.

Says Lincoln Dramatized Democracy In Burns Episode: "If ever the ideals underlying the Declaration of Independence were dramatized it was on that November afternoon in Gettysburg when the President of the United States and the Gettysburg cobbler and constable, John Burns, walked arm and arm through the public streets." That declaration was made by Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh, head of the department of history at Gettysburg College, in an address Friday evening before a dinner meeting of the men of the Presbyterian church on the topic, "Lincoln As Gettysburg Saw Him."

Ensign Enoch Weds In Cuba: Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. T. Roy Enoch, West Confederate avenue, of the marriage of their son, Ronald H. Enoch, an ensign in the U. S. Merchant Marine, to Clara Lus Capetany of Havana, Cuba, daughter of the late Senor and Senora Elio Capetany. The wedding took place in the home of the bride February 8.

Bendersville Will Complete Play Center: Bendersville's "Apple Bowl" will be completed this summer with the installation of bleachers, and the grove beside the "bowl" will be made into a play center.

The Bendersville fire company at a recent meeting voted to complete the work on the "bowl" this summer by building a covered grandstand and bleachers. The field has been seeded to grass and should be in good condition by the time the county league starts its

AMERICAN HISTORY

I recently spent a week in Boston, one of the most interesting of all American cities — even if you do often lose your way there! I read that it was the "Mother of American history," and it well fits the city. There it is that you learn about the early patriots and the "Minute Men." Bunker Hill, Faneuil Hall (Cradle of American Independence), Paul Revere's ride, the famous burial grounds, Harvard College at Cambridge, and a multitude of historic haunts. Every American should read the good history of his country, and then he should read of the nations that are his neighbors, Canada, Mexico, and the nations to the south of us. We need this knowledge just to keep us alive to all that is happening today, making the reading of the daily news that much more interesting and instructive.

The heroic American dead who gave their lives in three great wars and a few small ones remind us all of our priceless heritage of freedom, and it behooves us to learn more about what has entered into the growth and influence of America.

When I look back on all that has happened since I came into the world, and have noted the changes and progress, even in the face of so many serious blunders, both in war and peace, I know this nation has a silent guardian, as it has had since its early founders and patriots chose Liberty and Freedom as its great objective.

What a story is this history of ours, to be told to millions yet unborn! What a world in which to live at that time if all wars shall have been abolished among nations forever! Wars — cruel, and waste, waste, waste.

TIME

Time moves along at even pace.
So many hours, another day;
Seven days, a week has taken place.
Come into life and slipped away.

Men cannot hurry time along
However great their need may be.
If four and twenty hours seem long,
Man's plight they never hear nor see.

Great man! although the clock he stops,
The hours go by from day to day.
When he his heavy burden drops
Time will not wait though rest he may.

Master of much man grows to be
With courage for the daring deed.
Time lets him struggle wearily
And will not grant the hours he'll need.

and a half high adorned with white swan feathers. Military units that bore the names of early commanders, such as "Cleaves Rifles," the "Drake Zouaves," of Elizabeth, N. J., the "Gray Invincibles," of Philadelphia, the "German Fusiliers," of Charleston, S. C., who had seen duty at Fort Moultrie in the Revolutionary War, the Fifth United States Infantry, which fought in the War of 1812, the Mexican War, and the Black Hawk and Seminole Wars. A company of Hussars from Georgia, National Guard Troop from Louisiana, Troop A of the Ohio National Guard, from Cleveland, was the personal escort of the President, this same troop having escorted President McKinley.

Among the civilian units were the Temperance Pioneer Corps of South Bethlehem, Pa.; a company of full-blooded Creek Indians; a Pickaninny Band; the Young Men's Blaine Republican Club, of Cincinnati; the N. Y. named for Roscoe Conkling, a Representative and Senator from New York State, 1859-1881.

Many Leave Parade

Only three-fifths of the original formation actually participated in the parade. Many organizations preferred to quit the line rather than brave pneumonia. Also a large number were prevented from reaching Washington, rail and wire communication being completely knocked out as heretofore stated. A majority, however, waited in line patiently for hours before finally getting into the parade. By that time they were chilled to the marrow. The bright colorful uniforms of the military had to be hidden by the drab army overcoats.

Nevertheless, throughout the entire afternoon, the Taft spirit was exemplified by the Taft smile. That it was a great parade, surpassing in order, personnel, and interest any of its predecessors, was evident by the ovation it received all along the line of march. Despite the weather Pennsylvania Avenue was packed with people on the sidewalks from the Capitol to the Court of Honor in front of the White House. (By the way, the Court of Honor was the most elaborate up to that time, and there hasn't been any like it since; in fact the custom has been abandoned entirely.)

It was estimated that approximately 50,000 participated in the parade. The New York Seventh Regiment brought along its own servants. A freight house in the railroad yards was fitted up as a hotel and the Regiment's own chef prepared the meals.

Sworn In At Farm

Legally, all that is required for a President-elect to qualify is the taking of the short 35-word constitutional oath, administered by someone so authorized, and at no particular place. The Coolidge case is a good example. President Coolidge was sworn in at his Vermont home by his father, a Notary Public.

But beginning with Washington's first inauguration in New York the general public insisted on making it a gala event with fireworks, a parade, and a ball or reception. While Washington's two inaugurations lacked parades as we know them, New York City, upon his arrival there from his Mt. Vernon home in Virginia, gave him an enthusiastic welcome, something equivalent to the City's present day ticker-tape receptions to distinguished guests.

Sartorial Elegance
Washington didn't reach New York until April 23, 1879. Seven days later (April 30th) he was inducted into office at Old Federal Hall, Chancellor Robert R. Livingston, of New York, administering the oath of office on the balcony of the Hall, after which Washington returned to the Senate Chamber and delivered his inaugural address. Bad roads, and local receptions and demonstrations enroute delayed his arrival in the City.

Mrs. Taft Breaks Precedent By Riding With New President To White House After Inauguration; Washington's Sartorial Elegance.

Washington rates a paragraph or two on his sartorial preparations for his inaugurations:

Throughout his administrations Washington maintained a dignity and bearing completely at variance with present day customs and practices.

At both of his inaugurations, for example, Washington was dressed in a full suit of rich, black velvet, the short clothes decorated with silver knee buckles. He wore black silk stockings, and his shoes, which were highly "japanned," were surmounted with large square silver buckles. In his hand he carried a cocked hat, decorated with the American cockade. His hair, heavily powdered, was gathered into a black silk bag, on which was a bow of black ribbon. He wore yellow gloves, a light dress sword with green "shagreen" scabbard and a richly ornamented hilt.

Dignity Of Office

Washington's second inauguration occurred in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, on March 4, 1792. He was conveyed to the Hall in a splendid coach drawn by six white horses. Two gentlemen bearing white wands preceded the President and opened a way from the coach to the entrance of the Senate Chamber. Justice William Cushing (Mass.), of the United States Supreme Court administered the oath in the presence of distinguished officials and citizens.

Washington's regard for ceremony did not indicate that he desired to hold himself aloof from the common people, or to dazzle them with his person; but he honestly believed that such a course was necessary to maintain the dignity of the presidential office.

It was not until Lincoln's second inauguration that inaugural parades began to approach the size and brilliance of those of today. On that day thousands of veteran soldiers of the Civil War tramped up and down Pennsylvania Avenue paying honor to their commander-in-chief.

Jackson's Rowdy Friends

One of the rowdiest crowds ever to attend an inauguration was that which watched the induction of Andrew Jackson. He was the first President to rise from the ranks of the so-called common people. His "Old Hickory" sobriquet was acquired because of his Scotch-Irish iron will and tenacity — his unimpeachable character. Dauntless and unafraid, he typified the rugged, pioneering, never-say-fail spirit of his time. An episode after his death corroborates the foregoing: A visitor to the "Hermitage," his home in Tennessee, inquired of Jackson's negro servant whether he thought his master had gone to heaven. "Well," said the old darkey, "I can't say exactly whether the General is in heaven, but one thing I'm sure of, if he made up his mind to go there, why that's where he is."

The inauguration of the new President was a grand affair. The day was fine, and the crowd was vast. The people had come from every point of the compass to see their hero made President. Jackson, despite his want of early training, was capable of assuming the manners and deportment of the most highly cultured. He was not the least overawed by the presence of the great, nor did he affect to show contempt for the refinements of social life. "His manner throughout the inaugural ceremonies was faultless," writes an eye-witness.

Reception In White House

With the ceremonies over, a great public reception with refreshments was held in the White House, and it was then that the rabble had full sway. It was the most remarkable day in the history of Washington for weeks before the inauguration Jackson's admirers from across the mountains poured into the Capital City. Men in homemade jeans and checked shirts with coonskin caps on their heads; rough, shaggy men who did not understand sidewalks and went clomp-clomp in their heavy boots down the middle of the streets; teamsters, backwoods preachers, cross-roads lawyers, woodchoppers

Speaking at a testimonial dinner given in his honor Thursday night, Dr. Eric A. Walker said there is a critical shortage of personnel required by industrial progress.

Warriors Rally In Last Frame To Nip Waynesboro 65-61 As Wagnild, Little Lead Assault

A good all-around performance by Jon Wagnild, a 23-point effort by Earl Little plus a determined and spirited exhibition by the remainder of the players carried the Gettysburg High cagers to a thrilling 65-61 victory over Waynesboro here Friday evening in a South Penn game. The Warriors coming from behind in the final period to snatch victory after trailing most of the way.

Tom Kitzmiller put the Warriors ahead at 55-52 after 3:03 minutes of the final quarter with a goal from the side and another on a jump shot and they held the lead the remainder of the way. Prior to that Waynesboro was ahead twice by as many as nine points, the last at 44-35 after 5:27 of the third quarter. Wagnild turned in a fine game on rebounding, particularly in the final quarter, and sank three fouls at crucial points to protect the Warriors' lead in the fading minutes. He wound up with 17 points.

Little Lands Six
Little got six of his nine field goals in the first period to keep Gettysburg in the thick of the battle while Kitzmiller and Sid Steunour landed one each. Russ Hopewell, the loop's leading scorer, netted nine of his 19 tallies in the opening round. Waynesboro picked up an 11-8 lead but the Warriors went ahead on goals by Steunour and Little after 5:10 minutes. Ernie Shade tied the count with a foul. A pair of goals by Little followed and then the visitors took an 18-16 lead at the quarter on a pair of fouls and two goals by Hopewell.

From that point on Gettysburg never had the lead until the last quarter. Waynesboro was on top 30-21 after 2:30 minutes of the second stanza but the Forney-men fought back on the scoring of Little, Steunour, Wagnild, Hess and King to tie the score at 32-32 with 1:35 left. A long shot by Shade dropped through just as the buzzer sounded to give the invaders a 34-32 half time margin.

Visitors Get Big Lead
Waynesboro pulled steadily away in the third period and led 44-35 with 2:33 minutes left. Wagnild netted a pair of goals and fouls and Little a free loss late in the round which found the Indians leading 50-42 entering the final frame.

Fouls by Ken Keifer and Little plus a one-hander by Kitzmiller got the Warriors back into contention. A three-pointer by Little, goal by Wagnild and Kitzmiller's pair of twin-pointers sent the Forney-men to the front at 55-52 with 4:57 remaining. During the torrid finish the Warriors managed to hold to their lead with Bobby Hess coming through with five points, Wagnild three and Little one goal.

The largest crowd of the season watched the Warriors up their record to 7-9 in gaining the hard-earned victory. Next Tuesday the Forney-men play at Chambersburg.

Jayvees Outclassed
Ray Ellis' reserves were completely outclassed in the preliminary 40-26 and were limited to but nine goals by the faster Waynesboro scrubs, six of which were landed by Sid Weikert.

Hershey Bounds Back To 3rd Place

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Hershey Bears were back in third place in the American Hockey League today thanks to their ability to take advantage of penalties.

No fewer than 17 miscues were called in the course of the Bears' 3-2 victory over the Rochester Americans last night. Twice Hershey tallied when the Americans were a man short to take a 2-0 lead that was never relinquished.

The victory enabled Hershey to jump a point ahead of the Americans in the contest for third spot in the standings.

In the only other league action, Providence stretched its first place lead to six points over Cleveland by defeating the Barons, 6-5, in an overtime game.

L-TOWN GIRLS RETAIN LEAGUE COURT TITLE

Littlestown High's girls won their second straight Adams County League championship by turning back hitherto unbeaten Fairfield 76-52 Friday evening at Littlestown. The setback snapped an overall nine-game winning streak for Fairfield.

The Pacers led all the way to win in convincing manner. At half time the score was 40-21. Edra Ealy landed 29 points and Susie Blocher 21 in leading Littlestown. Dottie Myers rimmed 25 and Nina Shank 23 for Fairfield.

Biglerville moved into fourth place by trouncing Big Spring 44-30 on the Canners' floor. The upper countians hopped off to a 17-5 lead in the first period and were never in serious trouble. Jennie Chronister tallied 20 points and Vivian Geiselman 14 for the winners.

Boiling Springs nailed down the third position with a 58-17 decision over invading York Springs. The Bubblers, led by the Brenneman sisters, took a 20-3 lead in the opening round and were never threatened. Yolanda Golden and Rosie Ensor each tabbed five points for York Springs.

USDA Researchers Are Gaining Knowledge On Age-old Problem Of Feedlot Bloat In Cattle

By FRANK S. ZETTEL
Adams County Farm Agent

Some new light on the age old problem on bloat is slowly emerging from intensive studies at the U. S. Department of Agriculture and a number of cooperating state agricultural experiment stations.

Bloat has been a common problem to cattle owners since at least as far back as Biblical times, probably longer. Yet little is actually known about the cause, prevention, or most effective treatment of this disorder.

There is no full answer yet, either as to its cause or its cure, but recent USDA studies of feedlot bloat indicate that there are probably a number of interacting causes. Animals under study differed greatly in their susceptibility to bloat, and this difference could not be related to eating habits or total feed intake. This suggests that tendency to bloat may be inherited.

No definite recommendations for treatment are yet offered, but bloat can be relieved by use of a large-size stomach tube. This is believed by the USDA researchers to be the safest method at present. Old time remedies such as kerosene and turpentine are sometimes effective, because they break up the rumen froth that prevents the animal from belching.

Losses in this country due to bloat are estimated at $40 million yearly from deaths and decreased production. Much of this loss occurs on legume pastures, but some occurs also in feedlot animals. The USDA researchers produced frothy bloat in 11 animals by feeding them daily 14 pounds of concentrate (61 per cent barley, 22 per cent alfalfa meal, 16 per cent soybean oil meal, and 1 per cent sodium chloride) and 4 pounds of alfalfa hay.

Your pullets will start laying just about six months after they are hatched. The first eggs pullets lay are mostly of pullet and medium size. After the layers are over eight months old, most of their eggs are of larger size. The principal hatching time of chicks for layers is from January 15 to May 15. This causes a large number of pullet and medium size eggs to come on the markets from July to December.

From last July through November, prices for medium eggs were twelve to twenty per cent lower per dozen than for large eggs. Supplies of medium eggs began to drop off by last December, while supplies of large eggs increased. But early in January, the price differences between medium and large eggs narrowed down to three to five cents a dozen.

Now, if you have pullets hatched from late May to early July, they'll lay their smaller eggs from December to March, when prices for the smaller size eggs are relatively high. Then, these summer hatched pullets will lay more large eggs from July to November, when the market prices are firm for the larger eggs.

RUB FINAL COAT FOR BEST FINISH ON VARNISH JOB

The Associated Press

No matter how much care and effort you put into a varnishing job, it's what you do to the final coat that determines the quality of the finish.

When the varnish is thoroughly hard, which means waiting at least one day and preferably two, rubbing with a fine grade of powdered pumice, mixed with water, will smooth out the irregularities. This rubbing should be done with a felt pad in the direction of the grain, the same as sanding. Two things will be accomplished: the surface of the wood will become very smooth and the high gloss of the varnish will disappear.

Additional rubbing, without adding any more pumice, will restore some of the gloss and can be left that way if desired. If you'd like a higher polish, more of the satiny variety, rub still more . . . this time with rottenstone mixed with water or rubbing oil.

In recent years, several different types of rubbing compounds have appeared on the market, designed to do away with the pumice and rottenstone procedure. However, they are not available in most regular hardware or paint stores and must be purchased from dealers who specialize in supplying craftsmen.

But whatever you use, remember that high quality varnish finishes are obtained by the professional because of what he does to the final coat.

HANDY CONTAINERS

Those little aluminum foil containers used for storing and cooking foods come in handy in the home workshop. When you have a small painting job to be done, pour a small amount of the paint into the container and work from that instead of from a large can. The container can be rinsed with turpentine and used again and again.

Electricity Retains Heat In New Hotbed

Considerably less expensive than a green house, yet almost as useful, the electrically-heated hot-bed can be your answer to pre-season gardening.

Equipped with either an electric cable or light bulbs, a cold frame will give vegetables and flower seeds all of the protection needed against the winds and cold of early spring.

Heat from electricity keeps a hot-bed's temperature well above the danger point for seeds and plants at a cost usually less than the traditionally used manure.

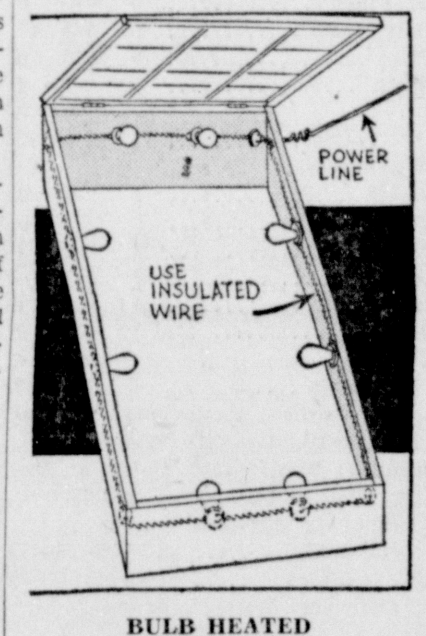

Eliminating manure also means a cleaner hot-bed, even and continuing heat and no odor.

The hot-bed can be placed close to the house, making it easier and less unpleasant to tend in bad weather.

The heat can be controlled by an inexpensive thermostat which will turn the electricity on and off as needed. This saves the plants from the fluctuations in temperature which are so common and dangerous when manure is used.

While the heating is usually done by a cable, a string of electric bulbs can also be used. The cold frame is constructed in the usual way and then sunk three to four inches in the ground. The soil inside the frame is removed to an equal depth. Then the cable is coiled in even, equal loops around the floor of the frame. Should electric bulbs be used, attach them to the sides of the frame, using two to a side and connecting them with insulated wire.

The supply wire and cable — or insulated wire for the bulbs — are connected to either side of a thermostat, which should be set at whatever minimum temperature is indicated by existing weather conditions.

HARRISBURG (AP) — The first cases to be appealed in a new crackdown on violations of state minimum milk prices are to be heard next week.

Five Philadelphia milk dealers and supermarkets are scheduled to be heard Thursday in Quarter Sessions Court. They are among about 20 Philadelphia dairies, restaurants and supermarkets arrested and fined $25 to $50 by magistrates on order of the State Milk Control Commission.

Glenn M. Bentzell Moved Into 4-H Club Work After Achieving Honors In FFA School Program

Glenn M. Bentzell, New Oxford R. 2, who graduates from 4-H work this year, has two regrets — that he has reached the age of 21 and hence is not eligible to continue in regular 4-H work, and that he started in 4-H club work only three years ago.

"I could have been in the work for seven years before that and had that much more fun," the young farmer says today.

Picked by the Adams County farm agents as representatives of the older group in 4-H work, Bentzell hopes to find as much pleasure in Senior Extension Club work as he found in the three years he was in 4-H.

Won Keystone Degree

He entered 4-H work after having established an enviable record in Future Farmers of America.

The stepson of Mr. and Mrs. Mark D. Stock, New Oxford R. 2, has continued since his graduation from New Oxford High School assisting on his stepfather's 190-acre farm, extending into adult life the work that he began as an FFA student and 4-H member.

In the FFA he won the Keystone Farmer degree, highest honor a youth can get in FFA work in the state. He was president of the New Oxford FFA chapter, and secretary and treasurer of that chapter on other occasions. He was a member of the New Oxford Hi-Y club and was vice president of his Evangelical Lutheran Sunday School class at New Oxford. His projects in the FFA were 500 broilers, a brood sow, gilt shoats and eight acres of corn.

May Change Breed

He carried on with his broilers and pigs after leaving high school, and also took up steer raising.

After completing school he became a member of the New Oxford community 4-H club, to "sort of keep up" with the pig raising he had begun much earlier and which had been aided when he was awarded a Sears Roebuck gilt while in the FFA. He has kept on with the pig work, now has 20 hogs fattening and is considering changing from "mostly Hampshires" to "mostly Yorkshires."

He has won numerous awards, both in FFA and 4-H work and at

Do's and Don't's

DO . . . as a general rule, use a file with the ridges, or teeth, far apart when you want to cut away a lot of stock . . . close together when you want to take off very little.

DO . . . put a handle on the tang (narrow end) of a file this way: place the tang in the opening and tap the handle on a wooden surface until it is secure.

DO . . . file with a level stroke, grasping the handle with your right hand so that your thumb rests on top of the handle and holding the point or end of the file in your left hand.

DO . . . remember that the file is meant to cut on the forward stroke only, which means that you must release the pressure as you bring the file back to you.

DON'T . . . make the common mistake of filing with a rocking motion, which will produce uneven results.

DON'T . . . forget that, while the stock ordinarily should be at about the height of the elbow when filing, an exception is when unusually fine work is being done, in which case the stock should be almost at eye level.

DON'T . . . apply either too little or too much pressure when filing . . . since either fault has a tendency to dull the teeth of the file much quicker than usual.

DON'T . . . keep your files in a drawer with other metal tools and don't store them so that they bump into each other.

GLENN BENTZELL

the Farm Show as a farmer with his farm products.

1,200 Broilers

For the last two years he has been active in the county 4-H Baby Beef club, and claims he learned much in the club that has helped him in handling the 60 head of cattle, including about 35 steers, on the family farm.

The broilers that were his forte in FFA work have become a full time job: "I keep 1,200 broilers going all the time." Even with the market for broilers well below normal Bentzell claims he is making a profit on the birds at the present time. "Not much, but still a profit."

A natural leader, Bentzell served not only as president of his FFA, but also was president of the New Oxford 4-H Community Club, and vice president and news reporter for the Baby Beef club.

NITROGEN WILL HELP GRAZING

Dairymen and others using rye for grazing or early spring forage for livestock will find that relatively heavy applications of nitrogen in March will increase spring growth markedly. Around 60 pounds per acre of nitrate nitrogen have been found useful by A. L. Gardner and J. B. Washko, agronomists at the Agricultural Experiment Station, the Pennsylvania State University.

Split applications, 30 pounds before growth starts and 30 pounds later, were no better in tests than a single heavy dosage.

Balbo (common) rye produced more fall and spring grazing in trials than Tetra Petkus, a newer variety that has been highly productive for grain. Tetra Petkus was ready for grazing earlier in the fall while Balbo grew faster in early spring. The research men believe a wise practice may be to sow small acreages of each. Forage for four or five cows per acre may be obtained for several weeks from rye seedlings.

Drilling large quantities of nitrogenous fertilizer in contact with the rye seed proved injurious to stands in dry weather. Since short dry spells following rye seeding are a constant hazard on most farms, care should be exercised in fertilizer placement.

Raising the seeding rate of the ryes, from two bushels per acre to three bushels, greatly increased fall yields of forage. This increase, however, did not carry over into spring grazing.

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Welfare Department plans to open the state's first children's evaluation center in Philadelphia March 15. Secretary Harry Shapiro said the opening would be "a milestone in the department's drive to serve more completely the needs of all our citizens."

"Lumpy Jaw" Can Infect Man And Livestock

(This is the second of a series of weekly articles by faculty members of the School of Veterinary Medicine of the University of Pennsylvania.)

By CHARLES W. BAKER, V.M.D.
So-called "lumpy jaw," which we so frequently encounter in our dairy cattle and to a lesser degree in beef cattle, is more correctly known as actinomycosis.

This disease, while seen most frequently in cattle, can infect all species of livestock and man as well. It is caused by bacteria which has some unusual characteristics when grown in the laboratory. This aids materially in diagnosis. Our present concept of this disease is that the organism is constantly present in the soil, hay bedding and perhaps the grains fed. Some localities appear to be more heavily contaminated than others which might well explain the higher incidence noted in certain farms. Undoubtedly the ability of the organism to infect cattle and set up an active infection also varies due to many environmental factors affecting its well being.

Injuries to the tissues lining the mouth or covering the tongue open avenues for the infecting bacteria to invade these tissues and if conditions are suitable for its growth, development signs of infection are soon noted.

The usual signs of infection are one or more swellings of varying size in the region of the head. The locations most commonly involved are the facial bones in front of the eyes and the lower jaw bone or mandible. The enlargement of the bone is firm to the touch and may grow rapidly or slowly as the case may be. Seldom is the disease self-limiting; it becomes progressively worse. If not treated the animal begins to lose in weight and condition. This is due to the involvement of the teeth and surrounding tissues thus affecting the ability of the animal to eat and chew its food in the normal manner. In the dairy cow there is a drop in milk production and this loss may soon be severe enough to warrant disposal of the cow because she is unprofitable. Furthermore, cattle affected with "lumpy jaw" should not be left in the milk line nor should milk from cows so affected be shipped to market since since contamination of the milk could be dangerous to human health.

In order to salvage the greatest

Dynamite-laden Suitcase In Chicago Negro Area Bursts

CLINTON, Tenn. (P)—A dynamite-laden suitcase exploded in the heart of Clinton's Negro section Thursday night, wrecking a restaurant and slightly injuring a Negro woman and baby.

The dynamite charge, which witnesses said was placed by a white man who raced away in a car, also heavily damaged other Negro-owned property.

The blast was the area's eighth, and by far the most destructive, since Clinton High School admitted 12 Negro students under a federal court order last fall.

Not Sure Of Connection
In the absence of concrete clues, however, officers still declined to speculate as to whether integration of the previously all-white school is connected with the series of explosions.

Police said the suitcase, which contained "several" sticks of dynamite, was placed on a concrete slab across the street from a restaurant where several Negroes were eating. The Negroes said they saw a white man stop, leave the suitcase, jump back into his car and speed away.

The blast caved in the ceiling and inner walls of the basement restaurant.

The woman, identified as Emma Simmons, suffered a knot on the head when hit by falling plaster; the 11-month-old girl, Jacqueline Gallagher, was cut by flying glass. Neither was believed seriously hurt.

Also damaged was a nearby sandwich shop owned by Steve Williams, father of a 21-year-old senior suspended from the integrated school on grounds he struck a white boy and threatened others with a knife Feb. 4.

"Scared And Mad"
Jim Loggans, reported for the Clinton Courier-News, said the plate glass window was blown from the front of the sandwich shop. He said Williams' home was one of about 25 or 30 Negro homes in which window glass was shattered. All were within a 100-yard radius of the blast.

Two cars owned by Negroes were damaged.
"They're scared, they're bewildered and they're mad," Loggans said of the Negroes. "One of them said he's going back to North Carolina. One man said, 'I can't understand it. We're living in the United States, but we've been intimidated and threatened until we can't stand much more.'"

Tap Banking Department To Be First To Explain Budget

HARRISBURG (P)—The Banking Department has been tapped to be the first state agency from which the Legislature wants an explanation of its budget needs.

Open hearings start Monday under the Joint House and Senate Appropriations Committees. They are expected to last 6 to 8 weeks.

Rep. Albert W. Johnson, Republican floor leader, said the group would seek detailed explanations of virtually every item in Gov. Leader's proposed budget of more than 1½ billion dollars.

Examine Budget
"The budget is going to be examined with a fine-tooth comb," Johnson said. "I won't say how much we hope to cut but we want it reduced to the point where we won't need new taxes."

The appropriations group told Banking Secretary Robert L. Myers Jr. to bring all necessary information on his department's fiscal operations to the hearing Monday.

The Banking Department operates principally from assessments made on state banks. Questions will be put to Myers on the Pennsylvania Securities Commission which is asking $215,000 for the two-year fiscal period starting June 1.

That compares to $202,700 it received in the current biennium. The hearings also will see Lt. Gov. Roy E. Furman appear to explain his budget needs. He is asking $50,000 for his office compared to $46,250 in the current biennium.

Asks $325,000
The third agency summoned to appear is the State Milk Control Commission. It is asking for $325,000 for the next two years compared to $300,000 it received in the current two-year period. Much of its revenue comes from special fees.

Committee spokesmen said the big items of education, relief and welfare would be taken up as soon as arrangements can be made.

Meanwhile, Rep. Andrew S. Moscrip (R-Bradford) said the GOP-controlled Legislature should pay 33½ million dollars in deferred state aid to school districts even if it means new taxes.
